The model based reflex agent can be transformed into by using different reinforcement learning techniques. If the environment of the agent has an infinite number of states it can transition into then we will have to use Policy Iteration algorithm.
If the environment has a finite number of states it can transition into then we can use the Q-learning algorithm.